ROYAL NAVY

Trafalgar Orphan Fund

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 28. In gratitude for the services rendered by the Navy in rescuing her husband after the piracy of the s.s. Shuntien in June, 1934, Mrs. B. Nicholls has made a donation of £50 to the Trafalgar Day Orphan Fund. This is announced in the report of the fund published in Admiralty orders yesterday. The total collected was £3,038, and has been distributed on the same lines as in former years, to nine orphanages and homes at the ports and elsewhere at which orphan children of seamen and marines are maintained. This is the Navy's own scheme for assisting these children. The tradition is that all the personnel contribute, if possible, a day's pay. All the money subscribed is distributed each year, none being kept in reserve, and all work connected with the fund is entirely voluntary.

The Shuntien was captured off Taku, and the aircraft carrier Eagle and three destroyers were sent to the scene of the outrage. Aircraft from the first-named soon located the pirates in the vicinity of the Yellow River and made them release their prisoners. Mr. Nicholls is an insurance agent in Shanghai.

COMMAND OF THE ROCHESTER
A change dates from to-day in the command of the sloop Rochester, on the Africa Station, last reported at Lobito, West Africa. Commander H. D. Owen, on completing the usual two years, will be succeeded by Commander F. H. P. Maurice, from the command of the destroyer Winchester, attached to the 5th Submarine Flotilla, Portsmouth. This is the first foreign command which Comdr. Maurice has held. He last served overseas in 1931-33 as staff officer (intelligence) with Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, Commander-in-Chief in China. He served during the War as sub-lieutenant and lieutenant in the Grand Fleet battleships King Edward VII, Royal Oak, and Colingwood, and specialized in torpedoes in 1918.

APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments were made by the Admiralty yesterday: Engr. Cdr.—F. G. Brown, O.B.E., to President, as Engr. Overseer at John Brown and Co., Clydebank, and at Jarrow's, Scotstoun (July 11). Cdr. (E)—H. S. Harrison, to Courageous (July 14); J. P. Charley, to President, for duty in N.I.D. Admiralty (July 18); J. H. P. Southby, to Victory, for Portsmouth Dockyard (July 19); R. W. E. Twinberrow, to Suffolk (July 25); and B. W. Greathed, to Glorious (July 28). Lt.-Cdr.—M. F. L. Mack, to Valiant (July 1); and W. G. Burnard-Lewman, to Ramillies (July 5).

FX-KING MOVES IN

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 28. A large furniture van drove slowly down the long, winding drive of Knowle House, Cranleigh (Surrey), on Saturday. In front and behind it servants of the Prince of Surbodays, ex-King of Siam, rode in cars. The last van-load of the treasures of the royal house of Siam was on its way to the ex-king's new home at Virginia Water. Shortly after the last van had left the ex-king and Queen came out. The ex-king entered the royal car at once, but the Queen stood for a time on the steps of the house gazing round the gardens.

THE DUKE OF KENT

On Air Exploring

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 28. "It is said sometimes that the day of exploration is almost over and that there are no new lands to discover," said the Duke of Kent at the Royal Geographical Society dinner in London last night. "People who say that show how little of the world they have seen. I am sure that the more one sees of the world the more one realises how much is still unknown. The romantic days are over when a small band of men could sail straight into the unknown from an English port. Now we have wireless and the most elaborate forms of transport to help us, but there are still vast areas of the earth's surface that remain unknown. Perhaps the best means of exploring these tracts is by air. The Everest flight is a case in point. Aerial survey," he continued, "is one of the very latest aids to the collection of accurate knowledge of the earth's surface." For the explorer, the oblique photograph was more valuable than the vertical. The archaeologist, the miner, and the naturalist among others all used the aerial camera with great effect.

EVEREST ADVANCE PARTY
Sir Percy Cox, president of the society, spoke of the new attack on Mount Everest, which is to be made next year, and said: "We have decided to run this expedition on different lines from those which preceded it. We have sent out a small party under Mr. Eric Shipton, who was with the last expedition. He and six others are now going to spend the pre-monsoon period in the precincts of Everest, taking stock of the western face, and if possible, seeing what condition the mountains are in at the end of the monsoon. Then, next spring, we shall send out our main expedition. Viscount Bledisloe, who, with the Norwegian Minister, responded to the toast of the guests, proposed by the Marquess of Zetland hoped the society would use its influence to persuade the British public that New Zealand was not part of Australia (Laughter). Other speakers were Sir John Hope, Bart., and Sir John Lubbock, Bart., who proposed a toast to the expedition."

THE EVENING ENSEMBLE

Every fashionable dance frock, nowadays, is part of a two-piece. A coat or a cape invariably accompanies the gown, and no matter which is chosen, it must match it sufficiently to give the effect of an ensemble. There is no question, this season, of a little lame coat in silver or gold doing duty with two or three dresses. A chiffon gown should have its chiffon cape, and a crepe satin gown its short, full coat of similar material. All "patch-work effects" are definitely taboo. As taffetas is so fashionable for evening wear, the matching wrap is almost a necessity—it would be a little difficult to ally it with any other fabric!

CREPE TAFFETAS

In addition to the new shot taffetas the manufacturers have evolved one with a crepe-like surface, emphasizing the fact that smooth-faced materials are not adding a great deal of favour just now. The taffetas surface weaving takes the form of a somewhat irregular honeycomb effect, and this is unusually lovely in a picture gown.

Crepe satins have silver lines woven into them to provide the necessary uneven surface. The charm of silver threaded through delicate tones of blue and green may be imagined, but it is also particularly lovely with the new pink and deep rose shades. These last-named are heartily as fashionable as gold for dancing dresses, and among the dinner gowns of fine black lace which have been shown so much during the last few weeks three out of every six have a foundation of pale rose pink. Usually this foundation is composed of chiffon, and the filmy effect of the lace patterning over so delicate a tint and so soft a material is delightful.

UBIQUITOUS BEIGE

Beige lace dinner frocks are chosen a good deal by women to whom black is not becoming, or who prefer something lighter for an evening entertainment. The most popular beige tones this season are a pale honey and a mushroom beige. Two lace frocks with their accompanying long coats were shown at a recent dress parade.

TAFFETA ENCORE

FRAGILE DRESSES

The furs which went with fragile dresses were silver fox or shaved lamb, as when a slim girl wore a prim little black frock with a fitting shoulder cape of black shaved lamb and a shiny black straw hat with ribbon and diamonds as trimmings, bracelets, and a brooch. Slim women in neat white or black-and-white tailor made costumes wore small hats of felt or straw, low-heeled shoes, and light gloves, with a gardenia or a lily flower on a washing blouse.

The simplicity of morning dress is a contrast to the sumptuous elegance of evening clothes as worn at the charity ball for the Petits Lits Blancs held at the Cercle Interalle. One of the new fashions is the pleated dress stitched flat about the hips. In satin, in tulle, in silk crepe the fashion is charming. There is a new white satin which looks like mother-of-pearl. In full skirts and in slim dresses with a high-tail train this satin has a gracious effect. The neckline may be cut low back and front. Gorgeous jewels are worn, and very long handsome wraps which reach to the ground. They may be in tulle, in crinkled satin, and in brocades of different colours. With a pearl grey satin dress was worn a long rose-coloured crinkled taffetas Venetian cape. The figured crepe dress is the resource of the unimaginative woman. Plain materials are better style for the evening. Diaphanous lace dresses are invariably in black or white. The fashion of wearing flowers in the hair is usual. Camellias, gardenias, roses, or any small flowers are now set among the elaborate curls and coils of the hair. There were fewer lacquered curls at this ball, and more natural waves. Jewels are also worn in the hair.

FOR BRIGHTER COOKERY

All good cooks know that a touch of Bovril greatly improves their soups, gravies and casserole dishes. For Bovril not only adds nourishment and flavour on its own account, but brings out these qualities in the foods to which it is added. No kitchen is complete without Bovril.

MID-SUMMER
COLOURSBlues Now Rule
Fashion

BY OUR DRESS EXPERT

I am impressed with the latest evening ensembles in cornflower effects. Pale cornflower was the shade of a sweet little dinner frock with a sash of deep blue; to this was added the graceful three-quarter length limp slim coat, all in the darker tone.

Another cornflower success was achieved with black. This time the more familiar bright tone of the flower was used. Stiffened calico composed the dress, with a deep sash, and an unlined slim coat of black crepe. With black flowers, fan and other accessories, this was a charming affair.

Italian blue is a glorious evening shade. In his mid-season collection Molyneux has a simple short trained frock in this colour in a heavily crinkled crepe, with a wonderful jewelled belt in silver and blue.

These belts, or girdles, of jewels are very beautiful, especially with designs that spell simplicity of line, and fabrics that lend themselves to softly draped effects.

A black crepe ensemble, with a belt of gold was studded with corals. Coral ornaments were added. The effect was striking, so was a white, with a queer sash of dark brown, bronze and gold.

Both the London and Paris fashion houses show much black, but there is a tendency to stress a colour note with it, such as coral, cornflower, and a very violent green or scarlet. Rather a dull tone, in apricot, with white, is another charming alliance.

A dress and coat of white crepe had a belt apricot satin and coloured stones. Large shaded popples were worn in the corsage. A lilac-pink shade in stiffened organza also suggested a clever blend with a three-quarter coat, sash and corsage bouquet all in a faded apricot colour.

Another of the dead shades was a rivergreen ensemble in crepe satin, cheered by a gorgeous belt of green and blue jewels on a silvery surface.

For the average Englishwoman the three-quarter or longer half-length coat is the most flattering to the figure. Especially good for the evening, ensembles are these nonchalant limp styles. Further they are very practical.

Shot taffeta seems best kept for those crisp short jaunty little coats, reserving the heavier hazing crepe and satins for the longer length. There are some lovely new limp-hanging coats in fine brocades—some of which are shot with silver or gold. Apricot or peach are favoured. Purple of a dark hue is a very good contrast to this faded apricot range.

Fashion has been for some time stressing the purple note, yet it is not an easy colour to wear successfully, but it is appreciably assisted by pink, or indeed, also by certain shades of blue.

other with a suggestion of the pink underside of a mushroom in it. Princes of very tiny emerald green fabric had similar trunks, but in a coral pink shade one in the honey tint, and the

KENT

Leads Ascots Fashion

Gold Cup Day at Ascot is the world's most fashionable dress parade, but to-day the parade was at times obscured by macintoshes.

The green lawns were trampled into a mire of muddy grass on which moved a multitude of black umbrellas, grey toppers and hundreds of macintoshes.

The Royal Enclosure was practically empty and most people kept in the grandstand.

Yet, not even wind and rain can destroy the principal reason for Ascot, which is to predict the fashions of the coming year.

Women fooled the weather by holding their parade in the covered shelter which leads to the grandstand. These macintoshes were shed between races, and women's elaborate dresses, pink, blue, white, were displayed in comfort.

This is what I saw:—The Queen in silver and white. Her coat was of a shining silver brocade, her hat a silver turban, with a pale pink osprey in the folds.

COCKEREIL PLUMES

The Duchess of York, in a dress of a new colour, something between a hyacinth blue and a pale sky.

The tall Duchess of Kent, England's new leader of fashion, in the most striking clothes I have yet seen her wear. Her hat as usual was the most arresting part of her dress scheme. With a giant brim of dark nigger tubular straw, it rode at an angle of sixty degrees on the left side of her head. Two long cockeril plumes accentuated the backward sweep of the brim. The rest of her clothes were starkly simple. A coat, trimmed with heavy fox fur, ended below her hips. A single string of pearls round her throat, dark nigger gloves and a nigger doorknob bag completed her accessories.

The most noticeable features everywhere were the Marina fashions. Several women wore hats almost identical with that worn by the Duchess of Kent on Tuesday.

THESE ARE COMING

Here are Ascot's dicta, as I think they will influence late summer and autumn fashion.

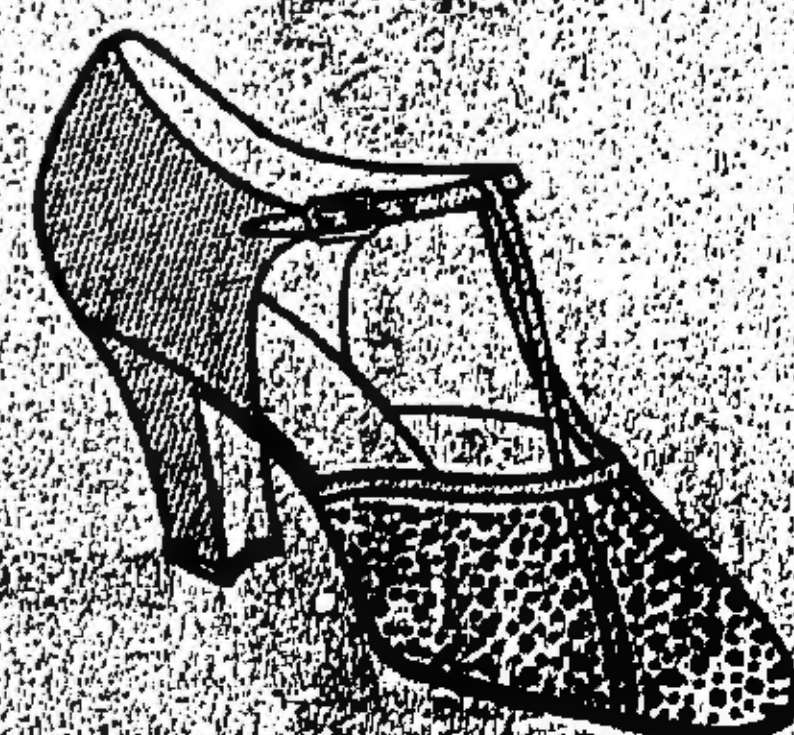

Suits—Severely tailored. New effect, achieved in pale pink, satin coat, black satin skirt. Skirts much shorter and tighter.

Capes Also shorter. Light dresses that end about four inches below the shoulders and are made of a coarse fish net.

Colour Scheme—Coral and navy.

Hemlines—Afternoon dresses about two inches shorter. Long dresses now minus trains.

Neck Lines—High. Smockings on the ebb. Big flowers on a long line on the incoming fashion-tide.

PARIS FASHION SCENE

Toys And Trinkets In The Novelty Shops

Parisienne are divided between two types of handbag this season—the large "hold-all" and the dainty little bags which mean that a woman must abandon a large portion of the odds and ends she is in the habit of carrying about with her.

Box-calf, suede and patent leather are the most important materials from which useful everyday bags are being made and the idea of a belt to match is so faithfully adhered to that most shops display the two pieces together.

Very popular are the flat rectangular bags, with a hand-hole to grip them by, cut out of the one piece. Sometimes this same type of bag appears in oblong or circular shape, especially when it happens to be in white box-calf for more dressy occasions. The rectangular bag with a couple of narrow leather loops permitting it to be hooked over the arm is also popular. Indeed, for daytime and morning use in particular, bags need no longer be held under the arm, but are supplied with handles which make them easy to hold when shopping.

One of the latest Worth novelties is a bag of black antelope with a watch inset in a small rectangular space, while the gilt figures to mark the hours are arranged in a wide circle on one corner, forming a novel decoration upon the front of the bag. With such a thing in her possession no woman should fail to be on time for her appointments.

FOR THE BEACH

Linen has met with considerable favour for beach bags and commodious models for summer-holiday wear, while the sailor's kit-bag, with a draw-string about its neck, is a favourite in coloured linen or cretonne, to hold bathing-dresses, towels, and all the other paraphernalia of the beach.

Crocheted bags, this time of the pochette variety, are made in natural-coloured linen thread and worked in coarse fancy stitches, while American cloth, with such applique designs as sea-birds and ships in white upon a blue ground, are also popular. Even little maps of the coast-line are arranged in white American cloth upon some models.

For evening wear considerable interest is centred upon dainty vanity boxes about six inches by four, or even larger, which contain spaces for all a woman requires, although they do not permit her to carry any "overweight." Such boxes which are usually of gold or silver, go with every dress and solve the vexatious and costly problem of a bag to accompany each gown.

Then there are the pearl-stitched bags for evening wear. Sometimes they are woven from one mass of tiny pearl beads; in other cases the beads are sewn upon a silk or velvet foundation in a set design, or scattered haphazard here and there. Petit-point is coming to the fore again, and old Chinese brocade in so many colours that there is little difficulty in matching one bag to several dresses. Most of these bags are so flat that they are designed with special fittings for powder, rouge, and cigarettes in order to prevent them losing their shapes.

GOLF BELTS

The sports belt with tiny pockets upon it has met with success among French sportswomen, particularly golfers, and space is frequently given to tiny holes which hold half a dozen coloured tees. These, apart from their use, also have a decorative value.

Applique belts of black and white, or navy blue and white, repeat the designs on the shoes they accompany, and I have also seen a green suede belt with a fastening suggesting a comet, with a group of tiny stars in its tail, while the same motif was repeated on a slant across a smart rectangular bag.

One of the most amusing novelty bracelets I have come across lately was of real ocelot fur, cut into the form of a strap and fastened with a decorative buckle of coral and onyx. It was worn over the tight-fitting sleeve of a sports suit, and some women are wearing similar fur "straps" choker-fashion about their necks.

Six Fashion Tips

Ascot, the world's most fashionable race meeting, was turned into a display of mackintoshes, muddy shoes and dripping umbrellas on its opening day.

Its best fashion tip was in the Duchess of Kent's hat. The brim, a foot wide, was white inside and black outside. The crown was white like the lining, and hardly visible from one angle, where the brim turned up in an almost rectangular sweep.

The Duchess wore a dress of black taffeta with a jabot of scarlet chiffon at her neck. Here are five more Ascot fashion tips seen in the dresses:—

1. Tailored lace is this year favoured. These dresses are tight fitting and have no frills whatever. One or two had a short coat, the majority not even having this to relieve the tailored lines.
2. All manner of suits. Printed crepes of exotic floral patterns were used for coats and skirts. The blouses were made of the predominant colour in the pattern. Some suits also in beige flannel, rose-coloured lines, tweed and taffeta.
3. Long dresses, very simply cut, one or two reverting to the 1914 hobble-skirt and swathed hips. Very few dresses made in the traditional Ascot fabrics of voile and organdie.

STRIKING CONTRASTS

As provided by the royal hats at Ascot:—
The Queen's turquoise-coloured toque, the Duchess of York's pink-beige bonnet and the Duchess of Kent's enormous cartwheel hat of black and white.

4. Colours.—This year women wore startling shades like vermilion, or white, black or powder-grey.
5. Hats.—Either very big or very small. An unusual Ascot, vogue was the felt hat usually only straw. One or two women brought an alternative hat completely changed after the rain had ceased, and the women exchanged their dark hats for the more summery ones.

Unexpected sight: Pair of goloshes worn by a famous London hostess, Mrs. Claude Leigh.

Hope

Her Father: "I do hope you appreciate that in marrying my daughter you are getting a very big-hearted and generous girl."
Young Man: "I do, sir. And I hope that she has acquired those fine qualities from her father."

Season's Most Picturesque Trends

GLOVES, LIKE HATS, MUST BE DECORATIVE

Many admirers of the Edwardian era will take the opportunity of once again rustling in silken petticoats. The modern girl as she lifts her muslin frills of beige, white or yellow, will reveal a contrasting taffeta underslip, of perhaps apple green, Victorian pink, or sky blue. Some slips in taffeta are embroidered with tiny flowers, that work in with a pleasing colour scheme. A black one was covered with quaintly-coloured posies. It was very attractive under a stiffened black muslin frock. These embroidered flowers were repeated in cotton blossoms on a big hat of black leghorn. A transparent cape with medallions of the same flowers, thrown on and edged with frills of black net, completed the theme. Amusing and very cool gloves were of taffeta and net, with the same quaintly coloured cotton flowers adorning a stiff gauntlet.

Gloves are causing excitement. Many girls are attracted by decorative types. Very expensive and lovely are those in fine kid-campas-taffeta frilled with laces and embroidery. But all ultra-fanciful styles have a way of quickly passing.

One must admit, however, that though fanciful gloves, like shoes, are having a wonderful innings this season, Ascot will witness the perfection of all such fanciful details. They assist in stressing the beauty of simple but picturesque ensembles, especially all-white girlish toilettes, assisted by coloured gloves, bags, belts, shoes, and last, but not least, hats! In fact, the very dressy millinery peculiar to this season demands that the accessories should be in keeping.

If warm, transparent dark net lacey gloves with fine embroidered and ruched gauntlets will be favoured, and plainer, pale-coloured suedes or thin kid, with fancy stitching and large, pearl buttons. With the more tailored Ascot suits and transparent fabric caps and hats we shall see some of the neater examples, in matching or pale kid, with shining leather trimmings on short gauntlets. Some have perforated gauntlets resembling the broderie-anglaise crowns of hats, with wide felt brims. This perforated effect is a good point for summer and is also noticeable on all the lighter makes in shoes.

There will be many flower-like capes and collars made in white cambric and stiffer pique. Neckpieces of the same material will flatter darker thin frocks and those that favour the tailored trend. Nothing has been more successful than the finish of white cotton flowers at the throat, even on the severest dresses of black or white crepes and satins.

I am sure, if only weather permits, that we shall see the charms of these decorative floral neckpieces well exploited at Ascot. Nothing is more becoming than white, or near-the-white, at the throat. The same scheme can be extended to the rest of the toilette—flowers, tucked in belt or button-hole of coat, on the glove gauntlet, cape, or hat.

Fashion offers innumerable opportunities in white and coloured accessories, especially for the neck-finish, and other floral additions. Nothing is more helpful, as by these many changes can be rung either with dark or light foundations.

Hosery is always interesting. The manufacturers at last seem to have solved the important problem of fine-fashioning. We are now allowed slim ankles, even with long, feet, always necessary for the average Englishwoman! Further, pleasing and practicable stockings are very moderately priced. For Ascot, however, we shall fly to fancy and more elaborate ways. With all black, there is nothing lovelier than the transparent lace fronts and fine mesh of silk.

Palest beige-grey may also have a transparent look and fanciful stitching. Black is only good with black. With white, the palest beige and a new "faded" linen colour should be worn, for the misty, rather blurred and slightly darker hose will be chic for Ascot.

Flesh colour has lost some of its popularity, yet these things must always depend on each other for the success of any dress scheme. There are no hard and fast rules beyond those in good taste. Try to attain a complete harmonious effect.

It is well to remember, that in a galaxy of beautiful clothes a simple direct scheme will stand out best, such as all grey or a white and black.

BLOUSES GROW
IN CHARM

Skilled Needlecraft

No wonder the blouse has made such a triumphant "come-back" to the world of fashion this season, for the supreme artistry of West End needlecraft workers is being used in the production of original and exclusive blouses for morning, afternoon, and evening wear. Both designers and needlewomen have concentrated in creating lovely and distinctive examples of this particular aspect of the dress maker's art.

Trimly tailored, with its delightfully slimming lines, the little suit has captured first place in the summer march of the modes. Made in light fine tweeds in pastel tones of grey, pale rose, turquoise or some other fashionable colour, these suits demand an adequate supply of blouses, something different and charming, to complete an attractive ensemble.

SHADOW PATTERNED

Shadow-patterned organdie muslin, with a delicate tracery of tiny fern leaves or some flower design showing against the filmy background, in white, cream or pastel colouring is one of the most fashionable of the new summer fabrics for the dressy blouse.

This is newer than the embroidered organdie, although this is such a girlish and fascinating material that it is still used for youthful low neck and puff sleeve blouses. Georgettes, crepes, chiffons, silk muslin and lace are favourite fabrics. One London fashion creator has made a rule this season of designing a little blouse of the finest of chiffon or mousseline de soie to wear with his tailored models. The short hip-length coats are lined with tulle, which gives a delightfully cool and slinky feel, unusual in the tailor-made.

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

PRIVATE LIFE OF DON JUAN

"The Private Life of Don Juan," which brings Douglas Fairbanks to the King's Theatre to-day, climaxes the athletic star's long-standing preference for films with Spanish themes and backgrounds, which began with "The Mark of Zorro" and followed through in "Don Q," "The Gaucho" and "The Black Pirate."

The story of the film, which was directed by Alexander Korda for release through United Artists, treats, the great lover in rather cavalier fashion and expounds the amusing theory that, deprived of his name and reputation by a trick of fate, Don Juan was no greater lover than the next fellow, if as great.

LADIES SHOULD LISTEN

There are so few unmarried actors in Hollywood that young actresses' chances for companionship and matrimony become quite a problem.

This is the opinion of Frances Drake, brunette film actress, featured with Cary Grant and Edward Everett Horton in "Ladies Should Listen," the Paramount film opening to-day at the Alhambra Theatre.

It seems that all Hollywood actors are the marrying kind, Frances said. "On the other hand, there are proportionately so many unmarried actresses that bachelors are considered to be only doing their duty when they escort three or four different girls out weekly."

BABOONA

One of the most sensational adventure films of all time is promised for the King's Theatre when the newest production of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, "Baboona," comes to the screen.

"Baboona," it is said, outdistances anything the Johnsons have yet brought back from unexplored and savage lands, not only for authenticity and graphic detail but for sheer suspense and excitement.

This time the intrepid pair of explorers, have made safari in Africa by air. Substituting their feature, "an aerial epic over Africa," they have created it from the labours of two years during which time they travelled some 40,000 miles by air above jungle and plain, above unknown waters and mysterious mountains. According to those who have witnessed "Baboona" in preview showings, it furnishes one of the world's most extraordinary records of the conquest of the unconquerable.

MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH

Pauline Lord, noted stage actress who makes her motion-picture debut in Paramount's "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," coming to the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday, has been on the stage for over thirty years, yet never has played an ingenu role.

Making her screen debut in the title role of the picturization of Alice Hegan Rice's noted classic, the distinguished stage star is cast in the same type role that she has played so often, and so brilliantly, in the theatre.

BELOW THE SEA

Excellent Film

"Below the Sea" which is having its run at the Queen's Theatre will delight those who care for this particular type of films. The story is a commonplace one, and the acting is overshadowed by the interesting deep sea marine life which the actors set out to observe.

A diver and a German sea captain take advantage of the Chapman scientific expedition to salvage some $3,000,000 in gold bars that went to the bottom of the sea during the World War. The backdrop of the expedition is a spoiled playgirl who falls in love with the woman-hating hero and the plot divides itself between her efforts to win her man and the schemes of the captain who plots to outwit the diver of his share.

Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy are both good and a scene in which Fay Wray is cut off with the oxygen supply will readily commend itself to those who take in breathless moments.

There are many specimens of fish seen under the surface and Ballamy's battle with an octopus on the floor of the ocean will give the audience several thrilling moments.

Technicolor shots of sea, anemones and star fish, are instructive as well as beautiful.

Others in the cast are Fredrik Vogeding, Esther Howard, Trevor Bland, William J. Kelly and Paul Page.

For sheer educational value this picture is hard to beat.—O. M.O.

FILM OF A SCOTTISH GHOST STORY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

A haunted Scottish castle, which was sold and transported piecemeal to the United States, will figure in a new film, "The Laying of the Glorious Ghost," which M. Rene Clair is to direct for London Film Productions, Ltd. Production will be started on July 1, and it is understood that several of the scenes will be shot in Scotland. The film is based on a short story, "Sir Tristram Goes West," which appeared in "Punch" three years ago, and the theme of the haunted castle which remains ghost-ridden after its Atlantic crossing provides promising material for M. Clair, who is preparing the scenario with Robert Sherwood. Mr. Robert Donat, who took the chief part in "The Thirty-Nine Steps," will play the ghost, as well as the supernatural visitor's modern descendant.

FOUR AIR LICENCES

No Other Woman Holds

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

The first woman in the world to qualify for a licence as a full-fledged aero engineer has received notification from the Air Ministry that she has passed all the examinations.

She is Miss Dorothy Spicer, of London, with Miss Pauline Gower, she runs a commercial air firm.

Miss Spicer for the last six months has been working at the Napier Engineering Works, Acton, learning the practical side of her job.

She now holds all the Air Ministry's licences which it is possible to get for the care and maintenance of aircraft and aero engines. These are the "A," "B," "C" and "D" licences.

No other woman holds them all in Great Britain or the Empire.

DRAKE UP-TO-DATE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

Admiral Lord Jellicoe is a keen follower of lawn tennis. I liked the story told of him by H. W. Austin at the eve-of-Wimbledon dinner of the International Club, of which he is president, writes a correspondent.

Lord Jellicoe, according to Austin (and I don't really believe him) was playing tennis when summoned by a sailor messenger to come and do battle on the high seas.

"Oh, I can't come yet," he replied. "It's three all in the final set."

OLD ETONIANS' LODGE

Freemasonry At The College

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

Prince Arthur of Connaught, Past Grand Master of Berkshire and Master of the Old Etonians' Lodge, attended the annual Public Schools Masonic festival at Eton College, when nearly seven hundred brethren took part in a long and varied programme.

This is the first time the festival has been held at Eton. The attendance was 50 per cent. higher than at any previous gathering of the kind.

Among the guests were the Earl of Harewood, Past Master; Lord Amphil, Pro Grand Master of England; the Earl of Donoughmore, Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Ireland; Lord Saltoun, Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Scotland; and Lieut. Colonel J. H. Moir and Mr. H. E. Niven, representatives of the Grand Lodge of New Zealand.

Others present included Lord Cornwallis, Colonel W. F. Wyley, Bishops of Buckingham, Lincoln, and Warrington, Major T. G. Lumley Smith, Sir Colville Smith, and representatives of each of the twenty-seven public school Lodges.

GARDEN PARTY

The programme opened with luncheon on Fellows Eyst. During the afternoon the Old Etonian members conducted the visitors over the College, and then the guests assembled at Agars Plough to see the Royal drive through Eton. Later they attended a garden party given in their honour in College Garden by the Provost and Fellows. The Provost (Dr. M. R. James), the Vice-Provost (Mr. C. H. K. Marten), and the Headmaster (Mr. Claude Elliott) received the guests.

Lodge was opened in School Hall after tea, and then a procession was formed and all the guests walked to College Chapel, where a service was held. The Bishop of Lincoln gave the address.

A banquet in a large marquee on Fellows Eyst brought the day's proceedings to a close. The Bishop of Lincoln gave the address. The Master, proposed by Lord Amphil, and responded to by Prince Arthur of Connaught; "The School," proposed by the Bishop of Buckingham, and responded to by Mr. Claude Elliott; and "Sister Lodges," proposed by Lord Cornwallis and

AN ITALIAN MANDATE

Over Abyssinia?

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

Mussolini wants Mr. Anthony Eden to agree to an Italian Mandate or Protectorate over Abyssinia.

These are the only terms on which we will discuss the matter at all. As the two statesmen met at Mussolini's palace in Rome to-day the Italian Foreign Office spokesman issued a statement discussing his country's attitude.

The official subjects are the Anglo-German naval agreement and the proposed Western Air Locarno; but it had been suggested in London and Paris that these would be overshadowed by Abyssinia.

One report said that Britain was prepared, on conditions, to offer support for a plan whereby Abyssinia would grant certain economic concessions to Italy in return for an outlet to the sea for herself through British Somaliland.

The Foreign Office spokesman said Italy would be "very surprised" if Mr. Eden brought the subject up at all. No notification had been received, and in any case he did not think that the British Government would be likely to make any "satisfactory" proposals. "Mere advice, he made it clear, was not wanted."

"It is no good," he emphasized, "suggesting territorial or commercial concessions. Italy cannot and will not withdraw her troops from her colonies until something has been done to ensure that Abyssinia will not continue to be a menace to Italy."

"Such concessions would not in any way ensure this."

CORDIAL TALK

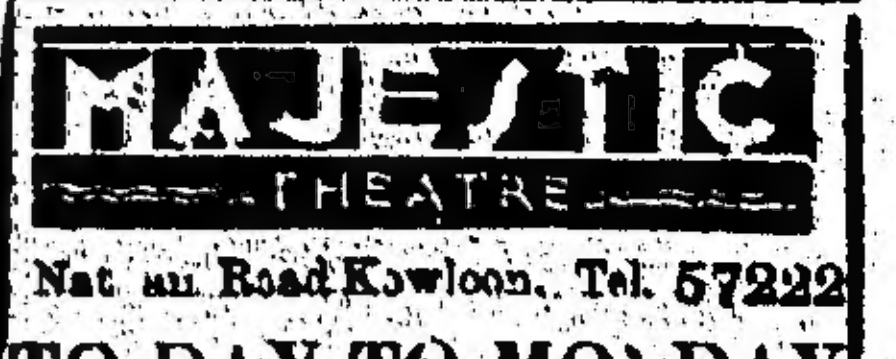

He then added that if Mr. Eden were in a position to engage the British Government's support for an Italian mandate for or protectorate over Abyssinia the Italian Government would be favourably disposed to discuss such a suggestion.

An official communique issued by the Italian Government after the meeting stated: "This morning Signor Mussolini received the British Minister, Mr. Eden, at the Palazzo Venezia, and had a cordial discussion lasting two hours."

In the course of this they examined the Anglo-German naval pact of June 18 and the projects for air pacts and also other questions which formed part of the Anglo-French agreement of February 3.

These "other questions" included pacts of mutual assistance and Austrian independence.

LINDBERGH TURNS SCIENTIST

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

One of the most sensational events in the history of medicine is believed to lie behind the announcement, made to-day by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, of the development of an "artificial heart."

One of the two discoverers of this man-made "blood stream" is Colonel Lindbergh, the famous American aviator.

The other is Dr. Alexis Carrel, the French-born surgeon, who won the Nobel Prize in 1932 for success in suturing blood vessels and the transplantation of organs.

The discovery "enables entire organs, with their immensely complicated structures, to be kept alive outside the body."

The report of Dr. Carrel and Colonel Lindbergh says:—

"The method consists of the transplantation of the organ of any part of the body into a sterile chamber, and of its artificial feeding with nutrient fluid through the arteries."

General Evangeline Booth was welcomed by 15,000 young and old members of the Salvation Army at Alexandra Palace on Saturday, on her return from her world tour. 1,500 children in the costumes of various countries sang different national songs. A telegram was sent to the Prince of Wales, in which those present wished the fullest measure of success to the King George Jubilee Trust, "which we feel to be alike happy in conception and fraught with tremendous possibilities for good in operation."

And The Lunatic

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

Ann Harding has her most solemn part for some time in "The Flame Within," next week's film at the Empire.

She is a woman doctor who psychoanalyses the abnormal back to normality and meets with very fair success. This success, however, is a mixed blessing. When Lillian Belton (Maureen O'Sullivan) attempts suicide she comes under the conscientious care of the she-psychologist. The root of the trouble is Lillian's fiancé, who, although charming between times, has spasms of drinking more than he should. In consequence, the good doctor has to save the company from themselves and straighten out their difficulties. In doing so she makes any number for herself, as the young drunk transfers his affections to her.

GOOD ACTING

Considering the subject of the story and the construction of the plot, "The Flame Within" is genuinely interesting. The action is not too clinical, so it does not suffer from the blemishes that marred "Men in White" and "Doctor Monica." There are not too many test tubes among the roses, and every bower does not contain a thermometer.

Miss Harding plays her part with a thoughtful sincerity which gives her mental adventures something like truth, and Herbert Marshall assists as yet another medico on the psychoanalytic scene. The best performance

HAWKER AIRCRAFT PROGRESS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

A trading profit of £195,801 is reported by Hawker Aircraft in respect of the year ended March 31. This compares with £180,143 for the preceding year, and enables the board, after placing £15,165 to capital redemption reserve and £50,000 to general reserve, to raise the Ordinary dividend from 15 to 20 per cent. On the 400,000 new "A" Ordinary shares of 5s. that were issued to the shareholders in January at 12s. 6d. each a dividend is payable of 5 per cent., being 20 per cent. for one-quarter of the year. The premium of £150,000 obtained on the sale of these "A" shares, together with the capital reserve of £15,925, has been devoted to writing down "designs, licences, and patents," reducing that intangible asset to £99,000. Owing to the recent provision of fresh capital the company was at the date of the balance-sheet well supplied with working resources: £173,431 of cash was held, and £63,113 of British Government securities; adding debtors, stock, &c., floating assets amounted to £800,092, or nearly twice the current liabilities.

London, June 26.

It is unlikely that British Government Department would approve the proposal of international police authorities, made at their convention in Denmark, that every passport should bear the fingerprints of its owner.

So far as Britain is concerned, such a proposal would have to be approved by the Foreign Office.

British passport officials consider that the present passport system works well.

THE WATER CHARGES

Reduction Sought

The following letter was forwarded to us by the Secretary of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce last evening:—

July 5, 1935.
The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith,
Secretary for Chinese Affairs,
Hong Kong.

Sir—I have the honour to transmit for the kind consideration of Government the views expressed by a sub-committee of my Chamber on the matter of their effect on property and existing water charges. The following is a precise of views expressed.

1.—Rates on Property

(a) Owing to the present economic depression, considerable deductions in rents have been made.

(b) It is not uncommon to find in houses with four storeys only two storeys let, while the other two remain unoccupied.

(c) After deducting rates, water charges and incidental expenses such as cost of repairs, the net income derived by owners from their property is, in many cases, negligible.

(d) Rents continue to decline, therefore, rates collected on the basis of an assessment made several months ago would now be out of proportion to rents actually collected.

(e) The present rate is high, and was introduced on the ground that the exchange value of sterling, which formed an appreciable portion of Government expenditure, required a higher dollar increase. The value of sterling has now dropped considerably and the community awaits the restoration of the former rate. In times of emergency such as during the World War, Government might reasonably raise rates, but as soon as the emergency ceased, the rate ought again to return to normal.

(f) The points mentioned above have direct effect on property as an investment and an indirect effect on income derived from stamps. Reduction in rates would thus benefit both Government and property owners.

2.—Water Charges

(a) The existing system of universal meterage and the abolition of direct main to house supply is an inducement to tenants to waste water as only landlords are responsible for water charges.

(b) Water wastage by tenants will undoubtedly result in greater difficulties in times of water scarcity.

(c) The high rate together with water charges cause a great deal of hardship to landlords and require the serious consideration of Government.

It is suggested that Government should supply separate meters for each floor on the basis similar to the electric meter system. If tenants are made responsible for water charges they will not waste water.

These views were discussed at a monthly meeting on June 4, 1935. A result of which, I have been requested by my Chamber to approach Government with a view to

1. Restoring the old rate on property that is 13 per cent.
2. Bringing about a reduction in water charges to 37.5 cents per 1,000 gallons that is a reduction of 50 per cent. on the charge for excess consumption as outlined in the report of the Hong Kong Economic Commission.

I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,

Wong Kwong Tin,
Chairman.

THE ROMANCE

Behaved Splendidly

In a letter to a friend in the C.P.R., Captain E. P. Green, writing from Yokohama on 4th July, reporting the arrival of the "Romance" there on June 29, states:—

"We had a very stormy passage from Hong Kong and put in for shelter twice. We had two gales force 10, one ahead and one favourable—in this I ran for some hours but owing to precipitous sea had to heave to and was behaved splendidly. Part of the time running we were doing 10 knots. Yokohama is doing us well. The engine is now all right for a good clean, and overhaul. In a day or two I'm going in to dock for a scrub and all being well, hope to sail for Vancouver about July 14. I consider "Romance" as fine a sea boat as ever put to sea." She

APPEAL TO PARENTS BY HEADMISTRESS

For Closer Co-operation

LADY SOUTHERN GIVES AWAY AWARDS

There was a very large attendance yesterday afternoon at the Diocesan Girls School to witness the distribution of prizes by Lady Southern, Bishop R. Hall opened the proceedings by thanking the people who had kept the school running and also commented on the very good committee which the School possessed.

Continuing he said that he wanted especially to congratulate Miss Sawyer and the Secretary on the very fine work which they had done for the School. In conclusion Bishop Hall stated that he wished to welcome Lady Southern to the School once again, and also that he was very glad indeed that Mr. Sayer, Director of Education and Mrs. Sayer were able to be present. Bishop Hall then asked Miss Sawyer to read the School report.

Headmistress' Report

In presenting her report the headmistress said:—

"This year I feel I want to break away from the usual routine of a yearly report, which so often seems to be confined to such things as the numbers on the roll, the changes of Staff and the general health of the school. I have in my mind certain matters I would like to put openly and boldly before the parents of the children who come here for their education."

Lady Southern, the Director of Education and the Members of the School Committee will understand I feel sure, when I say that the important people in the room this afternoon are the parents—they are our guests of honour, and to each one of them I extend a hearty welcome. I wish I could say I know each and all of them personally, but I am afraid there are far too many for me to remember and there are some who never come to see me and though perhaps they know me by sight, they have not made themselves known to me. I am quite sure of this that if parents are really interested in the progress and education of their children they will take the trouble to get into personal contact with the school they have chosen.

ONE OF THE POINTS

This brings me to the point of one of the matters I want to talk about. Parents cannot be too careful in choosing the school to which they send their children, and they should, I think, try to find out as much as possible about it. They should certainly satisfy themselves that their children will be, as far as they can judge, in an atmosphere congenial to them, and this from a religious point of view as well as from an educational standpoint. Having once satisfied themselves that they have made a right choice there should be no difficulty in there being a strong and friendly link, a true spirit of friendliness and co-operation between the home and the school.

The children should realise this in their home life as well as in their school life. It should be plain to the children that the parents have an absolute confidence in the school Staff, all of whom they are proud to know, even if they cannot claim them as friends. The question of supporting school discipline ought not to arise—a child should not twice run with tales to her parents, feeling that she would receive sympathy against the school authority; any more than she should run to her mother for sympathy against the authority of her father, or vice versa.

LOYALTY TO SCHOOL

Loyalty to the school does mean that the school rules should be kept by the parents themselves and co-operation does mean the working together of both school and home. The parent should feel he can discuss matters of discipline, progress, etc., in fact anything concerning the child's education, with the school authority. I do not want you to think that children should not talk of school matters in the home—far from it—they should be encouraged to talk freely and naturally—telling not only of their triumphs and of their difficulties, but of their interests in their daily doings and what is expected of them. I should like parents to feel that I have a real personal interest in the pupils—that they are not merely a mass of youngsters, but they are individual and as such I try to treat them, and to let each have her own personality. This being so they cannot and should not be treated as so many bricks in a wall.

THE SPOILT CHILD

We in school do notice very carefully the home training that a child gets and it makes a tremendous difference to a child's school life in that training is, on more or less the same lines as that they get in a school. If a child is undisciplined at home, how can she be happy under school discipline? If a child is allowed at home to have her slightest word and whim attended to, and is given all that she asks for, or is allowed to treat her elders in an off-hand and even rude manner, she is going to have an unnecessarily hard time of it when she gets to school where such conduct is not tolerated. I must pass on to the other matter I have in mind, but I would ask parents to realise what loyalty and co-operation with the school mean, and what a large part they must play in the child's education.

EXAMINATIONS

My second topic concerns examinations, promotions, marks and prizes. Lately so much has been said about examinations that the subject is almost tedious. All that I want to say this afternoon is that I feel far too much importance is attached to marks and examinations and the children themselves are the worst offenders. This year we are not giving prizes nor are we making promotions on examination results. Each girl in each class is well known to her teachers and her year's work and progress has been considered rather than her examinations. For this reason prizes are being given for different subjects in different classes and it may be that a girl who is by no means at the top of her class has been awarded a prize because it is considered she deserves it for the steady effort she has put forth during the year. In a similar way each child has been considered with regard to promotions. What is the educational value of putting a child into a class which is unsuitable for her, and surely those who have been teaching her for a year should know what her standard of work is.

THE BEST JUDGES

Sometimes it happens—I have in mind three such cases this year—when a pupil can pass class at a too early age—surely it is better for her later development to keep the child back and let her school days be of a normal length rather than she should be ready to leave school when only of school girl age. Others, on the other hand, develop more slowly and I think it is fatal to their progress to put them into a higher class until they are really ready for it. A child is not a fit judge of what is best for her and she should learn to recognize that those who teach her are thinking entirely of her good, when they advocate her staying in the same class another year.

MANY FRIENDS

The school is fortunate in having very many friends, and some of the most loyal and most generous are to be found among the parents, men and women who have the welfare of the school at heart. I dare not mention names but some are here to-day or whom we are very justly proud. Had it not been for the kind unselfishness of Mr. Smith our Science Room could not have shown the equipment which it now has—the improvement in our hockey ground is also due to his energy, while we have to thank him too for suggesting to Sir Thomas Southern that the school should year by year receive a prize known as the Southern Prize. For this Mr. Smith has invested a sum of money, the interest from which brings in the prize. This latter idea was suggested to Mr. Smith by a remark made from this platform a few years ago by Sir William Hornell, who was pointing out that the foundation of a scholarship or a prize fund was a finer memorial than any elaborate tombstone or statue could be. We are also indebted to Mr. Montargis and Mr. Lambert both of whom have donated prizes in the senior school and to Mrs. Ritchie for some in the Kindergarten School. I find it very difficult to conclude; there is still so much that I could say, but I must not touch upon The Girl Guides, The Games, The Old Girls' Association, the

HONG KONG FROM THE AIR

Local Journalists Thrilled

During the last few years the development of aviation throughout the world has been one of the outstanding features of progress. Countries, even with extensive surface transport, have appreciated the value of the aeroplane as a commercial vehicle and, perhaps more important, as a means of producing trade.

China, whose provinces cover a larger area of the world's surface than the whole of Europe, undoubtedly requires aviation more than any other country in the world and it is in this direction that The Far East Flying Training School, Ltd. is proving its worth.

This institution was started early in 1934 with the Far East Aviation Co. as its operating agents. Fit. Lt. Murray was appointed the first commandant and immediately on his arrival in the Colony set to work to build up the very fine organization that exists to-day. From a piece of waste ground in the corner of the aerodrome given him to work on, he has had constructed a serviceable and well-equipped, if not palatial school which is turning out quite a number of men who should prove of great service to their Country in the future.

WELL-EQUIPPED WORKSHOP

In the engineering workshop are twelve types of modern aircraft engines and pupils are instructed in top and complete overhauling. They are stripped, rebuilt and then bench tested to British Air Ministry requirements with calibrated air-screws. There are about 45 studying this particular branch and they all come under routine and discipline very similar to that in any type of school. Most of the Chinese pupils are housed at Kai Tak Bund, thus providing them with easy access to work which starts at 8 a.m. and carries on until 5 p.m.

THE STAFF

Flying pupils number about twenty which includes ten members of the Volunteer Defence Corps, and all are progressing very satisfactorily. The training is based on that given in R. A. F. Flying Training Schools and all the instructors left the Service with the highest possible qualifications. Chief Instructor Murray was flying boat instructor at Air Service Training, Ltd., Hamble, which is the largest Civil school in Britain and probably in the world. He has done more than 1,000 hours in flying boats.

Fit. Lt. Smith, who incidentally, has completed 2,900 hours in the air of which about 2,000 has been in instructional work is a product of the R.A.F. Central Flying School and holds their A1 certificate which is the highest flying category in the world.

After glancing through their records, one can readily understand the complete confidence flying pupils have in them and when one takes into consideration the language difficulty, which is a tremendous handicap to instructor and pupil alike, the present standard of the Chinese pilots must be considered remarkable.

GROUND ENGINEERING

The ground engineering department is equally well catered for.

both Messrs. Neyle and Wilcox, the chief maintenance and instructional engineers respectively, hold all the British licences possible to obtain, whilst Messrs. Marshall and Paul have very fine records with the Air Force. Other members of the Staff include the Chinese liaison officer and an education officer. All lectures given in English are translated into Chinese and notes given in that language.

It will thus be seen, that the School authorities have been nothing if not thorough, in their choice of Staff and all intending pupils can rest assured that their training will not be impaired for lack of qualified instruction.

Commenting on the present safety of the modern aircraft Fit. Lt. Smith said, "Statistics show that air travel is the safest to-day, it has been proved that there are more miles done per death than by any other means of transport."

ABOVE THE CLOUDS

To demonstrate this remark, I was taken up in a De Havilland gypsy Moth and in a very short while was 5,000 feet up in the air. The weather was absolutely ideal and it was an experience that will not readily be forgotten. Apart from the coolness of the air, after the stifling atmosphere we had just left, the feeling of exhilaration at being above the clouds has to be experienced, to be really appreciated. Hong Kong far below looked unbelievably small and the coast-line could quite easily be followed all round the Island. After about a quarter of an hour in the air one is forced to the conclusion that the motor car as a sight-seeing medium is decidedly a back number and one is able to see more of Hong Kong in 15 minutes than one is ever likely to see by road.

Having had my appetite whetted, I made enquiries about the possibilities of making future trips and was told that the usual charges were $30 for half an hour, $10 for ten minutes and $5 for a quick flip round the harbour.

FLIGHT RECOMMENDED

At the conclusion of a very interesting afternoon, therefore, I feel that the least I can do is to exhort all members of the local public who have hitherto felt flying to be unsafe, to save up their copper, phone up the School and if finances will not permit further, book even a five minute flight, and scotch once and for all their feeling that flying is dangerous.—N.M.

MR. G. R. SAYER

Mr. Sayer thanked Bishop Hall for his words, and said that he was asked about a fortnight ago to speak this afternoon, and at once took stock of the situation, and realized to his dismay how very little he knew about the Diocesan Girls' School. He had a fairly clear recollection that someone had told him it had rather a good system of physical culture, and that the Headmistress took a keen interest in the educational value of the cinematograph. But otherwise he had but very little knowledge of the School.

The speaker said that somehow or other the school managed to keep in touch with the best of educational developments, but it also employed a striking experience, quaint innovations, abrupt and wholesale changes in curriculum. In fact it gave him the impression that while at a school the Diocesan Girls' School was good as an item of news it could only be classed as fair—distinctly only fair. He accordingly decided instead of making a speech simply to come and offer Miss Sawyer and those associated with her his sincerest congratulations.

LADY SOUTHERN

Miss Sawyer gave me the pleasure of coming here to-day on the understanding that I need not make a speech but only say a few words. I could say many words about the school, I think you all know that I take a great interest in it and I admire the good work achieved there, so I leave the School to speak for itself through the good report you have just heard. I propose to confine my words to Miss Sawyer, who in her position, cannot say anything about herself and I wish to take this opportunity of congratulating her in the name of all present and of many other friends in the Colony on the Jubilee Medal which was conferred on her.

The work of the Head of a large school is peculiarly arduous and the importance of the influence exercised on young minds is perhaps not sufficiently recognised. In Miss Sawyer the girls of the Diocesan School find a friend both in work and in play and they are fortunate to have as their leader one who has done outstanding work for the Empire both in India and Hong Kong.

CAPTAIN AND CREW

I was interested to read an article written by Miss Cotton in which she compared a school to a ship. I am sure that the school is a ship, and that the captain and crew are the staff and pupils respectively. (Continued on Page 11)

PREVENTING A NAVAL ARMAMENTS RACE

The firm basis that it gives to those negotiations for general limitation upon which the British Government is inviting the other naval Powers to embark is one value of the Anglo-German naval pact that can readily be appreciated. Italy has assented to discussions and Mr. Eden's visit to Paris was for the purpose of beginning formal conversations with France and to convey the assurance to the French Ministers that the understanding with Germany was arrived at in the hope that it would be helpful to a wider agreement. The fixing of a definite ratio as between the British and German fleets, thus leaving the future size of the German Navy to be determined by what is regarded as the naval necessities of the British Empire, gives a scale that may be used as a starting point for the consideration of the needs of other Powers. It gives a guarantee to all these Powers (which they did not enjoy previously) that Germany will not embark upon an unlimited building programme. The First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, in a recent broadcast speech, said that "the world is thus rid, so far as Germany is concerned, of the fear of a new race in naval armaments" and to say the least it is indeed a notable contribution towards the stability of the world to have removed one of the possible causes of international jealousy.

In Paris the general opinion is that the limitation may lead to an expansion rather than a contraction of armaments and these views are shared by the Moscow Press. Should these views prove correct then indeed it would be unfortunate, for it was not at all meant that the limitations should have such result. Of course limitation at a higher level would be more desirable than no limitation at all, but is there any reason to contemplate a higher level? As far as France is concerned the ratio fixed for the German fleet would leave Germany permanently inferior to France as regards naval strength, while the actual tonnage of the German navy would increase only if Great Britain found it necessary to expand her navy to counter increased naval strength from other quarters. The American Government shares the British and German belief that the naval pact should prove a help to limitation, and in acknowledging the negotiations the United States even went as far as to suggest that they might lead to a mutually acceptable proportional standard for the European Powers. Reflection, and the explanation that Mr. Eden will be in a position to give, should help to the wider acceptance of that point of view.

It is quite possible that this agreement might point the way to a more general naval understanding, and the next step would be to ascertain whether a Western Air Pact can be negotiated. During the debate on the increase of the British Air Force, Mr. Stanley Baldwin welcomed Herr Hitler's offer to discuss an air convention and measures to safeguard the civil population. All the proposals, of the same order, made by Herr Hitler, are worthy of exploration, more especially as the naval agreement affords concrete evidence of his willingness to bind Germany to the terms of his declaration.

STONECUTTERS BLAZE

Matchsheds On Island Destroyed

But for the prompt and efficient manner in which the Fire Brigade dealt with a fire which occurred shortly after 2 p.m. yesterday on Stonecutters Island, much more disastrous results would have been the case, but, as it is damage to the extent of $1,000 was done by the conflagration.

At about 2.03 p.m. the coolies quarters of Messrs. Fogden and Brisbane, contractors on the island, suddenly caught fire presumably from one of the matchsheds used as a kitchen. The flames, helped by a strong wind, quickly spread and those on the island attempted to quell the outbreak with buckets of water and other means. Their efforts did not meet with much success and the flames, still fanned by a strong wind, quickly spread to the adjoining matchsheds which were used as quarters by the coolies.

A call was put through to the Fire Brigade and the No. 2 Fireboat under Officer W. McF. Smith was immediately despatched to the scene. Two delveries were brought into play and the fire was subdued in less than one hour after its start, the through call being sent out by 3.04 p.m.

Five matchsheds were completely destroyed by the fire and thanks to the good work of the Brigade the adjacent matchsheds did not suffer much.

The coolies' property and other building materials which were stored in the matchsheds at the time to a total value of $1,000 were destroyed by the flames and it is understood that they were uninsured.

There were no casualties reported.

EMPIRE ADDRESS TO HIS MAJESTY

The following communique was issued by the Colonial Secretariat last evening:—
His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government has received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies the following copy of the text of the address which he delivered to His Majesty the King, on behalf of the Colonial Empire, at the Reception of the Diplomatic Corps and representatives of the Empire, held at St. James's Palace on the 8th of May in connexion with His Majesty's Silver Jubilee celebrations:—

On behalf of all Your Majesty's subjects in the many lands of your Colonial Empire, I offer you, Sir, their loyal and heartfelt congratulations.

Many of these countries are well known to Your Majesty personally, and the proud memory of your own visits, Sir, has been renewed by those of Members of your Family, whom they have rejoiced to honour. Throughout these distant lands, your Jubilee has been celebrated, and Your Majesty's own message has been heard. Infinite in their variety of race and creed and rule, the peoples of these lands are one in personal devotion to Your Majesty and in loyalty to Your Throne. Everywhere they are mindful of the wise and gracious solicitude with which you have ever watched over their interests and promoted their welfare, a solicitude in which Her Majesty the Queen has conspicuously shared. It is their earnest prayer that Your Majesty may long be spared to continue Your high imperial task.

BITTEN BY PUP

Mr. H. West of No. 7 Ho Mun Tin, Kowloon, reported to the police that his seven-year-old son, Harold, was bitten in the right hand by a black pointer pup on Wednesday.

The little boy was playing with the pup at the time and the pup suddenly snapped at him, inflicting several bites or scratches on the boy's right hand.

The boy was treated at the Kowloon Hospital while the dog was sent to Matukok for observation.

PIRATES MUST HANG

Echo To Sheng An Affair

Dairen, July 11.
There was an echo of the Sheng An piracy yesterday, when the Supreme Court at Port Arthur refused a new trial for Captain Hugo Taudien, Arthur Gauthier, Walter Muller and Hendrich Westermann, sentenced to death by the Appellate Court in January, and George Schroeder, who received a ten-year sentence.

There is now likely to be no further appeal by the convicted men, who were alleged to have boarded the Sheng An at Tangku on June 26 and to have pirated it when off the coast near Shanghai.

After killing Captain B. Vikhman, the first mate and the first mate's wife, all Russians, in addition to seven Chinese seamen, all of whose bodies were promptly thrown overboard, the ship was commandeered and diverted to Dairen.

A most fantastic plan to take the Sheng An across the Pacific to Valparaiso where it was to be sold together with its cargo of ground nut oil, was revealed by the prisoners after capture.

The ship early on July 1 last year grounded off the coast of Koussekisho, Hoshigaura, Dairen. The pirates dashed for shore, three being caught after a brief freedom and two others arrested on the following day.—

CROP OF MINOR ACCIDENTS

Several minor accidents were reported to the Police yesterday which in each instance necessitated the removal of the victim to Hospital.

Cheung Shun, a 52-year-old stone-breaker residing at an unnumbered matchsheds in Argyle Street was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from injuries to his left heel. It appears that the unfortunate man was working near the hillside in Argyle Street when suddenly a boulder got dislodged and before he could get out of its way it struck him. His injuries are stated to be not serious.

Leung Shun Lee, a 35-year-old coolie was admitted to the Kwong Wah Hospital with injuries to his nose and face said to have been caused by a basket of vegetable from one of the waggons at the Yau-mat Railway Station. According to the man's statement he went there at about 6 p.m. yesterday to collect vegetable remnants when the basket fell down on him.

A Chinese male named Leung Po, aged 43, was also admitted to the Kwong Wah Hospital with spinal injuries sustained when he accidentally fell into a hold on board the s.s. Hankow whilst she was berthed alongside Sing Wo Terrace, in Kowloon City. The man, whose injuries are not very serious, is said to reside at No. 399 Shanghai Street, second floor.

GALLANT SEAMEN DECORATED

London, July 10.
The King held an investiture at Buckingham Palace to-day, when the popular comedy actor, Mr. Seymour Hicks, and Mr. Arthur Pugh, former chairman of the Trades Union Council, received Knight-hoods.

Decorations for gallantry were bestowed upon members of the crew of the liner Ascania which went to the assistance of the steamship Usworth when the latter foundered in an Atlantic gale last December, for their part in "a skilfully accomplished heroic and remarkable rescue."

The King handed to Mrs. Gibson the Albert Medal awarded to her son, a cook on the Usworth, expressed sympathy with the mother and commended her son's heroism.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

BY NO QUARTER

It is very hot. There is enough clatter of buses and cars, and screaming coolies to drive every thought out of a man's head and send him screaming to the Demon Rum. And somewhere out at the back, a gloomy Troubadour is sucking sentimentally at a saxophone, and bewailing the fact that "His two-time sweetie's done him dirt."

A few days ago, I heard a military band play some of the musical comedy tunes. There were none of your moping, moaning bits of nonsense, but tunes that bounced and bubbled along like a tumbler in a circus, so that everyone was forced to laugh—even the sober greyheads, whose Bach is worse than their Bitchoven, and who can play the Polish bassoon with one finger.

Personally I never learnt to play the piano, partly because I could never remember how many squiggles there were in the treble clef sign, and partly because the Bass had early a deeper significance for me than in the realm of music. I can, however, play the Rubber Viola, (which is picked with the teeth), and the soprano Phoon, (Schopffer's keyboard). Not, of course, at the same time, as the timbre is bound to suffer.

However, I must not boast. To work! To work! There are stirring doings to relate. Soda, I said, Perkins; not ginger ale.

TAIPANS AND TOREADORS

Unparalleled excitement was caused this week by the announcement that a wild bullock was rampaging around the Peak. The savage beast gored, Mrs. Ruslington, whose red nose doubtless infuriated the animal, and left a train of terror and panic in his wake. He then disappeared, and the task of finding him was left to the Police. This was no easy problem, owing to the animal's close resemblance to many of the inhabitants, and several residents were arrested in this connection. They were released, however, when it was discovered that they would not eat hay.

He was finally arrested and captured for travelling coolie class on the Peak Tram without a muzzle.

ALL EYES FIXED ON LONDON

Foreign Affairs Debate In The Commons

WAR MOMENTUM GATHERING FORCE IN ITALY

London, July 11.

The ears of statesmen in the European capitals are cocked on the House of Commons for this afternoon's foreign affairs debate in which Sir Samuel Hoare will deal with outstanding problems, namely the Italo-Ethiopian crisis and the Anglo-German naval conversations. Sir Herbert Samuel, Major Atlee, Mr. Winston Churchill and Lord Winterton will express various party views. Mr. Anthony Eden will wind up for the Government.

Meanwhile the war momentum is gathering force in Italy. Rome reports state that war propaganda is having its effect throughout the country which to-day read a war message from the soldier-poet, Gabriele d'Annunzio, who addressing himself to the volunteers embarking for Africa cried: "You are going out to victory: the aim of new greatness cannot be fulfilled except by a real Roman triumph over the barbarians and the allies of the barbarians."

Revenge for the Adowa debacle lies at the back of the mind of Italian nationalists. Meanwhile troops continue to depart daily. Over fifty new steel factories have arisen. Food and transport of animals are increasing in price. Importance is attached to the expression of British policy this afternoon. The only possible chance for a peaceful settlement depends on what Abyssinia would be prepared to accept for Italy is in no mood for compromise. If Abyssinia's appeal does come before the League, Italy may either refuse to attend the meeting or attend to insist on Abyssinia's expulsion from the League as an alternative to Italy's withdrawal.

FRENCH HOPES

Paris, July 11.

French eyes are also fixed on London, hoping to get a clue to joint Franco-British action in averting the war threat.

Some optimism is apparent that collaboration will be possible following a British declaration that no individual action is contemplated.

TWO MORE INCIDENTS

Rome, July 10.

The Italian Minister at Addis Ababa has formally protested to the Abyssinian Government with regard to two further alleged incidents.

The first is said to have occurred on July 6 while the Italian Consul at Harar was motoring to Diredua, the car being stopped by a number of Abyssinian soldiers, including an officer.

The second incident is said to have taken place on the following day, when an Italian soldier, attached to the Consulate at Harar was stoned and maltreated by Abyssinian soldiers.

GRAVE VIEW

London, July 10.

It is learned that no special arrangements have thus far been made to evacuate British subjects from Abyssinia as the British Government does not consider that the circumstances yet warrant such a move.

STABILISATION OF CURRENCY

Advocated In France

Paris, July 10.

The fate of the world depends in a large measure upon close financial co-operation between New York, London and Paris, declared M. Jean Tannery, Governor of the Bank of France, addressing a luncheon gathering at the American Club to-day.

"We are determined to defend the franc against all attacks," he added, "and we have the means to do so."

M. Tannery advocated general stabilisation of currencies to restore security and provoke recovery of business, and to stimulate international transactions.

NO COMMENT

Washington, July 10.

The Treasury to-day withheld comment on the reports of yesterday's intervention in the London silver market and likewise on the assertion of M. Jean Tannery, the Governor of the Bank of France, that the United States, France and Britain would soon be united for stabilisation.

The latter statement met with considerable scepticism on Wall Street where it is believed there are no signs that Britain is any nearer for stabilisation that she was previously.

IN GOOD FAITH

Washington, July 10.

In response to questions respecting the American silver situation, President Roosevelt to-day declared at a press conference that the Treasury was conforming as best it could, with the Silver Purchase Act.

They were acting in good faith, he added.

London on New York cross rate at 2 p.m. to-day was 4.9631 compared with 4.9650 at closing yesterday.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

Many Killed At Shizuoka

Tokyo, July 11.

A severe earthquake rocked Shizuoka district, a hundred miles south west of Tokyo. Many buildings are reported to have collapsed in Shizuoka city, where fires have broken out. Communications are interrupted.

The shock was also felt at Tokyo, but no damage occurred.

According to official estimates, 23 were killed and 47 injured in Shizuoka city, 448 houses were wholly or partially destroyed. The fires which broke out with the collapse of the houses were quickly controlled.

One person was killed and five injured at Shimizu. There was no damage or loss of life reported from other parts of the country.

DEATHS IN CHINA

Shanghai, July 11.

Fifteen people are reported to have been killed in an earthquake at Yuanling, 200 miles to the west of Changsha, the provincial capital of Hunan. No details are available.

choslovakia, Sweden, and Denmark demanding the raising of the bar by those countries on the delivery of munitions.

The notes emphasise the necessity to import arms to Abyssinia since a dangerous war is imminent, and Mussolini's as well as the Italian Press declarations openly refer to a campaign of conquest.

"You are going out to victory: the aim of new greatness cannot be fulfilled except by a real Roman triumph over the barbarians and the allies of the barbarians," cried Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italian poet and novelist, to the troops leaving for Africa. The name of the fire-eating poet who became a daring airman during the war and flew over enemy lines and bombed Austrian troops, has been obscure for many years. It was stated recently that he had completed a great new novel based on a subject from the war.

HEAT WAVE AND FLOODS

Claim, Many Victims

New York, July 10.

There have been thirty-nine deaths altogether in the New York floods and damage is estimated to run into $25,000,000 or more.

The flood-waters are now subsiding but vast areas are still submerged.

Paradoxically, there is a water shortage due to broken mains which adds to the distress of many districts.

Kansas City, meanwhile, reports a scorching heat wave in the Western States. Already there have been seven deaths from this cause in Texas and Oklahoma.

The temperature in the shade reached 108° in three states, Kansas, Texas and Missouri.

MORE DEATHS

Kansas City, July 10.

The heat wave death toll is steadily climbing. In nine Western States the total of deaths is now 31.

GRAPHIC TALES

New York, July 10.

Graphic stories of escapes from the floods in New York state were told to Reuter to-day.

The Mayor of Trumansburg said he was outside his bank when a mass of water, wood and rocks rolled down the hill into the main street. He grabbed the door handle of the bank as the flood swept over him. A huge log smashed a window beside him and he leapt to safety through the hole.

A woman motorist, Miss Hazel Povost of Marathon, said she and a score of other motorists took refuge in a shop on the main street of Marathon. As the flood rose they climbed on barrels and on the counters. Suddenly the walls crashed in. She was carried out into the street by the torrent. She seized hold on a tree and others grabbed boards and other debris and held on for seven hours, until they were rescued.

CHINA SOCIETY

Holds Annual Dinner

London, July 10.

There was a large Sino-British gathering at the dinner of the China Society, held to-night, over which Mr. Quo Tai-chi, Ambassador to London, presided, and the guests included Lord and Lady Winterton, Lord and Lady Emsworth, Sir Ronald and Lady Maclay, Sir William Llewellyn, Mr. H. G. Wells and Mr. William Nunn, M.P.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, in proposing the toast of "The Guests," said they had reached a turning-point in Anglo-Chinese relations. Formerly Britons felt a half-concealed disparagement for the Far East, while the Chinese often felt the heavy pressure of trading insincerity from the West. But that was all past. England and China had long been acquainted, and they would hardly believe perhaps how far Anglo-Chinese co-operation had now gone.

EAST AND WEST

Mr. H. G. Wells, responding, said the times to make vague generalisations about the East and West was completely past. People once thought of China as an almost non-existent land of fairy tales and monsters, but wireless, aeroplanes and other inventions had now abolished distance and people were feeling more and more their common destiny.

CHINESE PHILOSOPHY

"There are differences between us in language and thought; therefore we must set to work to understand them," said Mr. Wells, adding, "If I had several lives to live, I should devote one to the translation of Chinese philosophy."

"England, the United States and China," said Mr. Wells, "are a closely-knit community, with a common understanding for liberty. All are hostile to the world drift towards intolerance and aggression. This constitutes an admirable bond of sympathy between us. The history of the next hundred years may be a crucial struggle for liberty. That is why we are not strangers, but friends and brothers."

GREATER USEFULNESS

London, July 11.

With reference to the China Society dinner, Reuter learns that the Chinese Ambassador is actively devoting himself to the task of reorganising and revitalising the Society and is now consulting influential persons in the matter.

Hitherto the Society has been little known, being confined to a small circle of special interests. It is now the intention to broaden the Society's appeal to the outside public so as to enlarge its activities and thus transform it into a lively means for expressing Chinese thought and meeting the ground of all who are anxious to promote Sino-British relations.

Last night's widely representative assembly was the first of the kind ever held by the Society and is regarded as the inaugural symbol of its new career.

HEAVY TOLL IN NORTH CHINA FLOODS

Alarming Reports From River Cities

Nanking, July 11.

Heavy loss of life is feared in the flooding of Yenshin, Lunghai, a railway town 30 miles from Loyang. Chinese reports place the deaths between 2,000 to 3,000.

The town was inundated on July 8 when frantic efforts to strengthen the dykes failed before the battering torrents, although the waters receded the next day. Trains are passing to Yenshin, however. It is reported that only the upper part of the city wall is visible.

Traffic on the Lunghai Railway is partially suspended owing to washouts.

General Chiang Kai Shek has telegraphed various provincial governments urging efficient administration and relief under centralised control.

ICHANG DEATHS

Hankow, July 11.

An unofficial report from Ichang estimates that at least 400 have perished, while the Bureau of Public Safety states that 4,441 households in Wuchang and Hankow are affected and over 20,000 are homeless.

The "Central China Post" reports that Shao is still protected by surrounding dykes, but the outskirts are badly flooded.

The Hankow watermark this morning rose to 49.3 feet.—Reuter.

EARLIER REPORT

Nanking, July 11.

In addition to the Yangtze flood, a threatening rise is reported in the level of the Yellow River, of which two tributaries have burst their banks in consequence of the torrential rains.

The city of Yensze, fifty miles west of Chengchow, in Honan, is endangered by torrents battering its walls, which may collapse at any moment.

The Yellow River embankment at Wuchin in Northern Honan, has been breached, causing displacement of the railway service. Hundreds of houses at Nanyang, in Southern Honan, have collapsed on account of floods from the Pei River.

A Hankow message states that the entire city of Hanyang is submerged several feet, following the collapse of a number of dykes.—Reuter.

IN HONAN

Shanghai, July 10.

It is learned here that 1,000 persons have been drowned in the township of Yenchang, Honan, which has been wiped out by floods.—Reuter.

SPANISH DUTY ON FRENCH GOODS

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press").

By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, July 11, 7.30 p.m.)

Madrid, July 11.

A special import duty of 48 per cent has been imposed on all French goods entering Spain by the Spanish Government in consequence of the renewed breakdown of negotiations for a commercial treaty between the two countries.

The government justifies the new duty by the devaluation of the French franc by four-fifths although this devaluation was carried through nine years ago.—Transocean Kuo Min.

OVERDUE GERMAN YACHT

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press").

By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, July 11, 7.30 p.m.)

London, July 11.

Fears for the safety of the German yacht Ertebeker which had commenced on her transatlantic race from Newport to Bergen in Norway and has been overdue for two weeks appear to have been groundless. Captain Swanson of the steamer Ola having sighted and spoken to the missing yacht off Dunnet Head near the Orkney Islands.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HOME CRICKET

Northants Beaten By Notts

London, July 11.

Notts beat Northamptonshire by an innings and 45 runs at Peterborough after only two days of play.

The Northants batsmen failed against the bowling of Voce, who captured seven wickets for 34 runs in the first innings, the total being 140.

Notts scored 250, Walker playing a masterly innings for an unassisted 114, while Perkins took five wickets at a cost of 84 runs.

In the second innings Northants fared worse, the whole side being dismissed for 65 runs, thus losing by an innings and 45 runs.—Reuter.

AMES NOW AVAILABLE FOR TEST

London, July 11.

L. E. Ames, the Kent cricketer, who strained a leg muscle in the last Test match, is now fit and available for the Third Test on Saturday if his services should be required.—Reuter.

NO ARMS FOR ABYSSINIA

British Government Decision

London, July 11.

Until the whole question is considered by the British Government, it is understood that no licences are being granted for export of arms and ammunition from Britain to Abyssinia. One or two applications recently received have not been granted.—Reuter.

SWEDISH REFUSAL

Copenhagen, July 11.

The Foreign Minister had made a statement rejecting any possibility of Abyssinia obtaining supplies from Denmark, while the Swedish Government has sent a pointed refusal to the request from the Emperor of Abyssinia for permission to enrol a number of air-men for instructional purposes.—Reuter.

In the World of Sports

DAY OF VARYING FORTUNES

Great Bowling Feats

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26. Sunshine came back to cricket here yesterday, and, for once in a way, the brightness of the batting kept cheerful company with the brightness of the weather. New life had entered the game, and at the end of the day 442 runs had been scored. Of these, Surrey's share was 433, and although the Worcestershire attack on a wicket of the usual Oval politeness did not respond to spin or cause even the fastest bowlers to rise above stumps, runs were not often presented. Also, the fielding retained its pace and energy till the end of an oppressive day.

The big event was the stand between E. R. T. Holmes and Squires, which produced 180 runs in ninety minutes, for the fifth wicket. Four batsmen were out for 197 when two players, who are as poles apart in method, entered into partnership. Before they were separated Surrey were already in a position to enjoy themselves, so that hit or miss became the policy. When the last wicket fell only ten minutes remained for play, and Worcestershire scored 9 without losing a wicket.

It was, on the whole, a cheery day of sunshine and brisk cricket, and the only breeze, apart from that which gratefully relieved the heat, came when certain spectators considered it their right to bait an umpire, because a decision did not meet with their approval. This occurred when Fishlock was run out.

There had been an uneventful morning. The brightest period came when C. J. Lyttelton, captain of Worcestershire, in the absence of C. F. Walters, put himself on and proceeded to bowl such an erratic length that Barling was able to hit up 25 in less than a quarter of an hour. Apart from this, runs had come at the rate of fifty-an-hour, and it was by batting workmanlike, but not ornamental, that Sandham and Gregory put on 63 for the first wicket.

SLOW BUT INTERESTING

Once again Sandham looked set for that hundredth century which has eluded him so long, and once again he was out low, at a time when he was playing with every sign of comfort. Warner, a slow bowler, whose wrist action suggests an amount of break of the googly kind that was actually seldom in evidence, beat Sandham in the end after an innings which, if slow, was interesting.

Barling, too late for the pace of Perks from the ground, was bowled with the score at 123, and immediately after lunch Squires and Fishlock put on 69 for the fourth wicket.

Squires had returned to form with the coming of sunshine. Against the Worcestershire bowling his admirable technique and his variety of strokes redeemed his occasional slowness. The late cut, rarely seen, but still the prettiest shot in cricket, made its appearance, and he used his feet quickly and neatly in playing the slow.

He reached his hundred in two hours and forty minutes, and he hit twelve 4's. In the end, with his duty done to his side, he brought his innings to a worthy end in an attempt to force the pace. While Squires was on the whole, the cold scientist of the batting crease, Holmes was the opened-shouldered driver. He started fairly quietly, but he was soon driving with a combination of leverage and forearm strength, and he hit the ball four times for 6. Twice the ball landed in the road outside the Oval's new high brick fence, and he actually drove three times over "the ring" in the cover field.

Barling, a most unusual stroke for a long-carrying left-hand bat, took only two hours to make his 118. After that no one showed much care against a third Worcestershire attack, but H. M. Garland-Well, found time to enter the lists with another 40.

SURREY: First Innings
Squires, 180; Barling, 118; Fishlock, 69; Sandham, 63; Gregory, 197; C. J. Lyttelton, 25; Warner, 32; Extras, 10; Total, 442.

LAWN BOWLS NOTES

To-morrow's Games Discussed

BY "F.B."

Once again the lawn bowls programme of last week, was considerably curtailed due to the unusual heavy downpour which prevailed for the greater part of Friday and Saturday and as most of the greens were in a sodden state, no league fixtures were possible.

After an absence of a week from active participation, bowlers will once more be in action with the chief interest centred on the league leader's game against the Bowling Green.

Recreio is making some sort of an experimental test by playing two rinks which had entered in the open rink championship. I am referring to the rinks that are being skipped by H. A. Alves and the redoubtable C. G. Silva.

These two rinks should on present form account for any opposition and with the other rink skipped by F. X. M. da Silva they ought to be able to get the better of the Bowling Green.

The present leaders should not take things too lightly with the Bowling Green who have three very reliable rinks on which to depend upon. In A. M. Holland and J. C. Brown "C.G." will probably find more than his equal as skip. Though well balanced the Bowling Green will have to be at their best if they intend to lower the colours of Recreio for the second time this season.

What I am afraid will prove to be a very much one-sided affair will be provided by the encounter between the Craighengower "A" and the K.C.C. when they enter the Valley boys.

Craighengower "A" is as much in the running as the present leaders and with their persistency plus their consistently well balanced rinks, the K.C.C. will have to excel themselves beat them.

The deadly bowling of Omar and his men will once more be noticed to-morrow and if Luz and Bradbury can reveal their form of old the K.C.C. may be defeated by a heavy margin.

The K.C.C. are playing with practically the same team but I understand A. E. Silkestone is making a welcome return to the team after his absence for a couple of weeks.

Craighengower "B" after their recent success against the Kowloon Docks will start favourites against the Civil Servants to-morrow.

It is an odd thing with this team. They seem able to reveal extraordinary form at times while on other occasions they play like a second rate team. It is very hard to form an opinion of them but I do not think they will be very much troubled by the Civil Servants.

With the assistance of A. W. Grimmit and F. J. Jones the Civil Servants have a good chance of springing a surprise on the Craighengower "B".

Grimmit and Jones are skipping very well indeed but I do not think they receive that support from their team mates as other skips do.

The I.R.C. will be very much weakened by the absence of A. R. Dallah their stalwart captain whom I understand is on the sick list. The Indians will find it hard to fill his position as skip and I believe A. M. Wahan will be brought in to do the service.

The other rinks are about the same with the exception that A. M. Rumjahn will be playing No. 2 to A. R. Minu. Rumjahn has not played for the Indians at all during the present season and his display against Hyde-Lay on Wednesday augurs well for the Indians.

The Police will be playing with the same team. Their wonderful victory over the Recreio is still fresh in their minds and with this incentive they ought to give the Indians a very good fight and should about get away with the two points.

J. Shepherd and his men are about their strongest rink and should go a long way, no matter which rink they may come up against. W. E. Hollands too plays a great game and with such men as Downman, Dall and Post backing him, he should not be very much behind Shepherd's quartette.

Although this game ought to be exciting enough, the chances are that the Police will win.

One of the best junior games to date should be seen on the Recreio green when the junior leaders and their closest rivals meet. The Bowling Green junior are two points ahead of Recreio with one game in hand. Recreio have lost two games so far and I doubt very much whether they can survive to-morrow.

G.E.F. Thompson and G. Sheriff are two of the most successful skips in the second division and with them playing as well as ever there is no reason why they should not continue with their success.

Recreio have at least, H. Rosario and his men to look forward to in case of any tight pinch. This game should be a close affair with the odds slightly in favour of the Bowling Green, K.C.C. Civil Service, Police and Talkoo should win their games.

OMAR BEATEN

By laying four of his woods on the 26th head, J. V. Ramsay defeated U. M. Omar by 24 shots to 20, after the score was exactly level at the 25th head. The game was very closely contested throughout and seven times the two drew level after either one had gained a small lead.

Curiously enough, Ramsay opened his account with a four, and finished the game on the 26th head with a four! Omar, on the other hand, obtained a three on the 10th, and another 3 on the 21st which allowed him to tie with his opponents, score (13-13).

This is the second close game witnessed on the Recreio green, for on Wednesday A.M. Holland defeated P. T. Farrell by 21 shots to 20 on the final head.

SHORT GAME

Playing in the Third Round of the Open Singles of the Lawn Bowls championship, R. Duncan defeated A. O. Brown by 21 shots to 5, the game terminating on the 13th head. Duncan scored on every head with the exception of the 1st, 3rd and 4th, collecting a four at the fifth and a two on the next head.

A three at the 8th and 11th respectively further enhanced Duncan's position. Brown, on the other hand, failed to score a shot after the 4th head had been played, where he laid three of his woods.

LAWN BOWLS

Arculli Wins At Talkoo

Playing on the Talkoo Recreation Club green last evening, K. el Arculli of the Craighengower Craighengower Cricket Club defeated J.K. Sloan of the Hong Kong Electric Recreation Club by 21 shots to 13 shots in the third round of the Open Bowls Singles Championship, the game concluding on the 23rd head.

The green was in lovely condition, and was absolutely true. The winner showed very good form indeed, and thoroughly deserved the verdict.

ADAL BADLY BEATEN

On the C.C.C. green M. Y. Adal (Indian Recreation Club) was badly beaten by H. A. Alves, the Recreio skip, by 23 shots to 6 in a one-sided game.

Throughout the game Alves was playing better bowls than his opponent and at no stage of the game was he seriously challenged. Adal could do very little right as he found Alves in one of his best moods.

MUSKETT LOSES

Leading at one stage by five shots to nothing W.B. Musckett of the Hong Kong Electric fell badly on his play and lost to G.N. Mitchell on the 17th head by 21 shots to 7. Mitchell was unable to do much during the early heads and found in Musckett playing well. On the whole Mitchell played the better game.

U. S. BASEBALL

LEAGUE TENNIS

Indians, Again Beaten

Playing on their own courts at Sokunpoo, the Indian Recreation Club was badly beaten by the Chinese Recreation Club when they met in their league encounter last evening.

The Chinese were victorious by 8½ sets to 1. They were a much superior team, playing tennis of a high standard, and the home team, although showing great keenness was completely outclassed.

The half set registered by the losers was through A. K. Ismail and A. S. Sufflad, but M. P. Madar and A. Rahmin were the best Indian pair.

RECREIO'S EASY WIN

Paying a visit to Sokunpoo, Club de Recreio scored an easy victory over the Army Tennis Club by 7½ sets to 1½.

The weakest pair in the Portuguese side seemed to be J. Xavier and N. Beltrao—they conceded one set, while C. E. Xavier and H. A. Ribeiro lost the other 4. A. M. Silva and H. Goncalves were the strongest combination for the winners, while Cpl. Ballard and 1/C Grayford was the best of the losers.

The scores were:

CRAIGHENGOWER BEATEN

Because of the failure of one player to make an appearance, the Craighengower Cricket Club played with only two pairs in their encounter against the Kowloon Cricket Club and lost by 4 sets to two.

WIMBLEDON OPENS WITH A SURPRISE

Records Smashed at Golf

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 26.

This great week of sport opened with thrills in golf and lawn tennis yesterday.

In the qualifying rounds of the golf open championship at Muirfield a record of 70 was made by John Burton, of Hooton, Cheshire.

On the Gullane course Macdonald Smith, the U.S.A. player, smashed all records with a 66.

Henry Cotton, the champion, did well enough with 71, but Lawson Little, the British amateur champion, took 78, and is in danger of failing to qualify.

Wimbledon, in the heat, opened with a serene victory for Fred Perry. He only conceded five games to Rainville, the Canadian champion.

The surprise of the day was provided by Vivian McGrath, the 19-year-old Australian Davis Cup player, who beat Wilmar Allison, America's No. 1, by 6-4, 6-3, 7-9, 7-5.

BOROTRA'S POPULAR WIN

Wimbledon was like a furnace. It was the warmest first day the championships have known since the All-England Lawn Tennis Club moved to their new ground.

Men took off first their coats and then their waistcoats. Then they slipped their braces from their shoulders.

By mid-afternoon all the gangways and vestibules of the Centre Court and No. 1 Court were littered with cardboard cups which had contained cooling drinks. The refreshment bars were ankle deep in them.

What Wimbledon's perspiring crowd loved best was a victory for their old favourite Jean Borotra. When he came on to the court to face Association, whom they defeated by 9 sets to nil.

The full scores were:

W. T. Lee and S. Chan (S.C.A.A.)	beat H. A. Angus and T. Whitley	6-0
beat R. Holden and G. Gurevitch	6-2
beat D. Smith and J. Claydon	6-0
N. K. Ma and H. Chan (S.C.A.A.)	beat Angus and Whitley	6-3
beat Holden and Gurevitch	6-2
beat Smith and Claydon	6-2
C. P. Wong and W. Tang (S.C.A.A.)	beat Angus and Whitley	6-4
beat Holden and Gurevitch	6-2
beat Smith and Claydon	6-4

Most of the seven niblicks he carries in a bag of 24 clubs became overheated by repeated hacking out of the rough. "I have never worked harder in my life," he said as he holed his last putt. When asked for his autograph he said, "What! after a round like that?"

The dazzling rounds of the day were played by Macdonald Smith, of Los Angeles, who had a 66 at Gullane. This score smashed all previous records.

Smith, who has competed in nearly a dozen British championships, is known as the "uncrowned king of golf," because he has never yet won a national title.

IN SHANSI

School For The Poor

Shanghai, July 8.

At the usual weekly tiffin reunion held yesterday at the Metro-pole Hotel by the Shanghai Rotary Club, Mr. Robert Edward Nugent gave an interesting address upon "Impressions of an outsider on Rotary" and a report on "Carleton-in-China."

Introduced by Mr. William Yinson Lee, Chairman of the Programme Committee, the speaker of the day stated that his father had been a rotarian for many years, and it was because of what he had observed in that connection that his thoughts were first directed to the rotarian movement, recognizing that the good spirit which pervades throughout Rotary constituted something which held for business and professional men a value truly embodied in their motto "Service above self." Carleton-in-China is an organization connected with the College of Carleton-in-Minnesota, an institution which sends English-teachers to the school out here in Shansi, and is supported by voluntary contributions from the students and the faculty of the Home academy.

MANY HANDICAPS

The school in Shansi deals with students from poor and uneducated homes. Because of the situation in Shansi to-day, the heavy taxes, and the opium question, it is very difficult to give those students the kind of education they need. Therefore, one of the things that Carleton-in-China is trying to do is to give practical training. They have recently opened a school in rural home and animal husbandry.

Of the twenty students in the graduating class this year, two received a scholarship to a college, and will go to college. The rest have no desire whatever to go, but will return home, and help their fathers work their farms.

"When I came to China," concluded the speaker, "I did so with the idea of helping and lifting up these poor people, and this desire on my part, has, perhaps, been fulfilled to some extent. But on my return to America, it is with a distinct feeling that it is I who have been lifted up and helped, and that is I who have received the greatest blessing. And if I may impart some spirit of international service to my friends at home, I will feel that my to-do in China has not been barren, but has borne fruit."

PRIZE DAY AT D.G.S.

ship and the pupils to the crew. They are not passengers. That seems to me a very good comparison. Please, remember it girls. Miss Sawyer is captain of the good ship Diocesan Girls' School—you are the crew. You are not the passengers who sit at ease doing nothing. We who are here to-day are the passengers whom you are entertaining. But on you depends the good running of your ship—discipline, loyalty and enthusiasm are needed for the successful voyage.

THE GUIDES

I should like to say one word on the Guides and to express to Mrs. Politi, Miss Armstrong, Mrs. Ritchie, Miss Leung and Miss Wong my warm thanks for their good work during the year. Miss Sawyer—a guide herself—has inspired Guiding in the School and I believe it to be one of the finest assets in life. In fact in scouting and guiding lies one of the chances of peace in a troubled world. Lord Baden Powell says: "The only sound basis on which to build is the spirit to love and goodwill among people in place of mutual jealousies and mistrust."

I wish you all health and happiness and I call upon you for three hearty cheers for Miss Sawyer and the honour conferred upon her.

TWO LOYAL OFFICERS

Leaving The Service

A gathering of over 30 members of the European staff of the Public Works Department met yesterday morning to wish two of their members, Messrs. William Harold Edmonds M.B.E. (Military Division) and James Dickson both Senior Inspectors of Works, a happy retirement in the home country, on their impending retirement.

The officers are leaving the Colony on July 27 and 28 respectively and the function was presided over by the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson who is himself going home on leave to-day.

The Hon. Mr. Henderson said a meeting of this description was both sad and pleasurable. The Department was losing two friends and trusted officers who had worked here for many years and had excellent records. He knew both of them to be deserving of the highest esteem both professionally and outside of their work.

Mr. Dickson had earned the respect of all who had known him as he, the speaker, had, and no one was more deserving of the promotion he had gained whilst in the service.

Mr. Edmonds had gained appreciation of his work both in the Department and in connection with the Volunteers where he had enthusiastically recruited other members of the service.

THANKS RETURNED

He hoped that both of them would enjoy good health and happiness during the years of their retirement and had pleasure in presenting them with the tokens of esteem which had been subscribed for by their friends and colleagues.

In reply, Mr. Dickson expressed gratitude for the silver tray he had received which would always remind him of the kind hearts and associations he was leaving behind. As he had been here 26 years and had that much service on his record, he was not too optimistic in hoping for so many years retirement. (Laughter). He would also be glad to welcome any of those present at his home in England when they were on leave.

PLEASANT ATMOSPHERE

Mr. Edmonds expressed similar sentiments and added a cordial tribute to his immediate chiefs and colleagues who had helped to create the pleasant atmosphere in which his professional life had been spent. The two important things were health and friendship. He had enjoyed both and wished the same benefit to the friends he was leaving behind.

A silver Chinese tea set was received by Mr. Edmonds with a card: "Presented to William Harold Edmonds, M.B.E., by the Hon. Director and Assistant Directors of the Public Works, friends and colleagues in the Public Works Department, on the occasion of his retirement from the Hong Kong Civil Service on July 27, 1935."

Mr. Edmonds, who received his M.B.E. for services to the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, has been in the Department since February, 1911, whilst Mr. Dickson, who is a prominent member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, has 26 and a half years service to his credit.

Mr. Dickson received a silver tray engraved in Chinese fashion and similarly inscribed.

MONARCHY IN GREECE

Restoration Hopes Run High

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, July 10.

"Au revoir to Athens" ex-king George of Greece is reported here to have said at the close of an interview granted to a representative of the "Paris Solr."

This pronouncement which has attracted widespread notice here is remarkable, being the first utterance of the ex-king in which he expresses hope of returning to Greece at a not too distant date.

This relaxation of habitual reticence doubtless is the outcome of an announcement by the Greek Government that a plebiscite on the restoration question is definitely fixed for November 15. Moreover, the Deputy Premier and War Minister, Fongylis, who was frequently called "the strong man of Greece," and formerly a republican, openly declared himself a few days ago an advocate for the return to a monarchical form of government so that the likelihood of a restoration seems considerable.

In the course of the interview, ex-king George emphasised strongly that a true restoration could not be regarded as a triumph of an idea, still less of a party, but must be the expression of a free desire on the part of the whole people.

Concluding the ex-king repeated "Au revoir to Athens—If the Greek People wish it."
